FOCUS ON...LOW SUNDAY

The Sunday following Easter Day is called "Low Sunday" and it is the last day of the Easter octave, the word "octave" in this context being an eight-day period defined by a festival and the seven days following it. In early Christian times the Sunday after Easter marked the end of the ceremonies surrounding Baptisms at Easter. This was a time in which many Christian converts were Baptised at the Easter Vigil service and thus our renewal of Baptismal vows at the Vigil service is an echo of this early Church practice. After their Baptism at Easter, these converts were dressed in white robes to symbolize their joy and their new membership of the Christian community. In the week following Easter Day they would wear their white robes whenever they visited the Church. On the Sunday following Easter they wore the white robes for the last time. After, the service had ended, they returned their white robes and began their role as ordinary full members of the congregation. With the passing of time, more and more people were Baptised on days other than Easter and so many of the Baptismal customs associated with Easter faded. But in Western Europe the Sunday after Easter continued for a long time to be known as Dominica in albis, a Latin phrase meaning "Sunday in albs" or "Alb Sunday"; referring to the white robes worn by the newly Baptised, and so the phrase is sometimes translated as "White Sunday". The day has also been known as "Quasimodo Sunday" after the Latin phrase of the Introit for the Church services on that day, which was Quasi modo geniti, meaning "As newborn babes" (see First Epistle of Peter Chapter 2 Verse 2). Nowadays the Sunday after Easter is more widely known as "Low Sunday". Many scholars believe this name evolved from the phrase "Laud Sunday", the word "Laud" in Latin meaning "praise". Others suggest that it might have developed from "Close Sunday", a name which refers to the close of the Easter Week festivities!

PRAYER CHAIN PRAYER

(This Sunday Service's Intercessions Led by GRAHAM KING)

Risen Lord, who on the first Easter Day drew near to your two disciples on the Emmaus road, and at evening stayed with them in their home, be our unseen companion along the daily journey of our life and at the ending of the day, come and abide with us in our homes, for your love's sake.

May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with us evermore. Amen.
